

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Water Tank Project Update:

Water tank project is progressing well. Contractors have nearly completed their portion of the work. The next stage of the project is the curing process which will take approximately one week. Following this stage, the process of filling the tank will begin. This involves several important steps including water sample testing and approval. When we are able to provide a return to service date we will provide another update to the public. Thank you for your patience and understanding, as we ensure all appropriate steps are taken to complete the project safely and properly.
